SPECIAL ORDER OF THE DAY FOR NOTIFICATION TO ALL RANKS

The G.O.C. British Military Mission has with much regret to announce the death of Major H. D. C. Craig, M.C., H.L.I., from typhus contracted in the performance of his duties.

Major Craig, with a tireless devotion to duty, and with complete disregard of personal safety, has done splendid work in helping to ameliorate the conditions of the officers and men of the N.-W. Army at Narva.

In carrying out this work he was thoroughly aware of the dangers he ran, which finally resulted in the loss of his life. His self-sacrifice is worthy of the best and highest traditions of the British Officer, and will help in no small degree in maintaining the prestige of our race in the Baltic Provinces.

By his death the British Mission loses a very gallant and a very valuable Officer. T. V. DELAHAYE, Major, General Staff.

Awarded the Military Cross, January 1919, for personal gallantry and good work during the operations carried out by the 2nd Army between 28th September 1918 and 10th October 1918. On the morning of the 1st October 1918 an attack was delivered by the Brigade on the south slope of Hill 41, Vifwegen. Owing to mist and the strong opposition of the enemy, by which the Commanding Officer of the attacking battalion was killed, the situation was obscure. Captain Craig carried out extensive reconnaissances of the front under heavy machine-gun fire, and by the intelligence which he obtained it was possible to reorganise the front and to make dispositions to deal with a serious situation on the right flank. The work of this Officer has at all times been thorough and his energy indefatigable.

Decorated by General Yudenich with the Order of St. Stanislas, Second Class, with Swords.

Mentioned in Sir R. C. B. Haking's Despatches of 3rd February 1920.

* JOHN CRIGHTON, Student in Engineering, 1913-14. Lieutenant, 9th (Service) Battalion, The Black Watch (Royal Highlanders). Born 28th February 1892. Killed in action near Loos, 25th September 1915, in the Battle of Loos.

- † ANDERSON, DAVID, M.A. 1907, M.C. and Bar. Mathematical Master, Hutcheson's Grammar School. Gunner, R.G.A. Lieut., M.G.C., Infantry.

The Military Cross awarded to T/2nd Lieut. David Anderson, M.G.C., 24th Oct. 1917. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in an attack near Ypres on 28th September 1917. He led his men over a long stretch of open country through an enemy barrage and under fire from snipers. On arriving at his appointed position he found it unsuitable, and at once moved farther forward, and got his guns quickly into action, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, and assisting in breaking up an enemy counter-attack.

A Bar to the Military Cross awarded, 30th Nov. 1918, to T/Lieut. David Anderson, M.C., 23rd Bn. M.G.C., for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the forcing of a passage across the Monticano River on the 29th October 1918.

Though the northern bank was very strongly held by machine-guns, which were sweeping the southern bank, he got his guns into action, working one of the guns himself. Under cover of these guns the river was forced. Later in the day he gave the greatest assistance in covering the left flank of a battalion when a counter-attack threatened, and the whole situation was dangerous. Throughout the operations he set a very fine example to his section and the men responded to it.

- * CARBERY, MURTOUGH, M.A. 1912, B.Sc., D.S.O., M.C. Lieut., Royal Field Artillery. Captain (Acting Major), 6th Res. Bde., R.F.A.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry. When a hostile shell ignited the ammunition in a pit, and the fire spread rapidly, Lieut. Carbery, Sergt.-Major Horsfield, Gunner Deakins, and Acting Bombardier Walker, at great personal risk, fought the flames for over an hour under heavy shell-fire. Finally they succeeded in getting out the ammunition and extinguishing the fire. They set a fine example of pluck and determination. (14th June 1916.)

The Distinguished Service Order awarded, June 1918, to T/Captain Murtough Carbery, M.C., 64th Bn., 5th Bde., Royal Field Artillery.

On the 8th Oct. 1917, north-east of Triangle Farm, St. Julien, Poelcappelle, he stayed with three badly wounded men, dressing them in the open under heavy fire, until assistance was brought. On the early morning of the 12th October 1917 he led out his men, and advanced half a mile under heavy gas shell and H.E. barrage to commence offensive operations. He was ready in action at zero hour. He had been ordered overnight to withdraw his men to a place of safety.

During the operations north-east of Ypres, from the 5th to the 15th October 1917, he set a splendid example to all ranks. His battery was advanced to a position in full view of the enemy (with open sights) and subjected to constant shell-fire, suffering a number of casualties. Although evidently suffering extreme fatigue, he never spared himself in his efforts to save his officers and men. His battery had six guns in action at their new position on the 12th October 1917, and carried up 7000 rounds.

It is impossible to estimate the effect these specific acts of gallantry had on all ranks.

Mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's Despatches, 21st May 1918.

* GRAY, JOHN MORRIS, 1914. Fitter, Gunner, 217th Siege Bty., R.G.A.

GRAY, WILLIAM B., 1907. Captain, 4th The Black Watch., T.F.

* GREEN, ARTHUR. Ex-Instructor, St. Andrews University Officers Training Corps. (S.) C.S.M., King's Own Scottish Borderers.

GREEN, FREDERICK CHARLES, M.A. 1913, M.C. Enlisted 11th Scottish Rifles. Sec. Lieut. (spec. appt.), R.G.A. Heavy Bty., comdg. Trench Mortar Bty. Captain, Intelligence Officer, 19th Corps, at Div. H.Q., at Corps H.Q., and since the Armistice, at Gen. H.Q., British Army of the Rhine.

The Military Cross was awarded, 1st January 1918, to Captain F. C. Green, for personal gallantry and devotion to duty. During the time that Captain Green was with the 31st Division it took part in several small offensive operations, and in the great defensive operations to check the German advance on Amiens and subsequently in their advance through Bailleul, for which the Division was specially mentioned twice by the Field-Marshal. During these very trying times Captain Green never spared himself, and behaved with great gallantry, freely risking his life in his efforts to obtain information about the enemy's intentions. On more than one occasion he exposed himself to very great danger in examining prisoners, immediately on their capture, moving up close to the firing-line during these attacks, thereby obtaining the most important information, which contributed to the success of the Division in staying the enemy's advance.

* GREENE, HERBERT, 1915, M.C. with Bar. Lieut., R.G.A.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He accompanied a raiding party, having volunteered to act as guide. When the officer in charge fell into a lake, he took command and led the party to its objective. Finding this unoccupied, he pushed on to some dug-outs, which he thoroughly bombed, and shot one of the enemy himself. He was slightly wounded in the head during the operations, but continued to direct the party. (24th Sept. 1918.)

A Bar to the Military Cross awarded to Lieut. Herbert Greene, M.C., 154th Siege Bty., R.G.A.

For gallantry and devotion to duty. At Bergwick, at about 16.30 5/11/18, this Officer was in charge of a column of the battery, guns being drawn by caterpillars. The enemy put down a burst shell, getting a direct hit on one of the caterpillars, setting it alight. This Officer took charge of the situation, got the remaining caterpillars out of danger, helped to uncouple the gun pieces from the burning caterpillar, and assisted by a sergeant and the drivers he got them clear. His coolness and energy, coupled with a strong sense of duty, saved a situation which might have become very dangerous. The enemy continued shelling throughout the proceedings.

The Military Cross awarded, 3rd June 1918, to Temp. Captain David Anderson Duncan Kennedy, M.B., attd. 11th Bn. Rifle Brigade.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 20th November 1917 to 3rd December 1917. This Officer, during the fighting between Masnières and La Vacquerie, was untiring in his efforts to evacuate the wounded and organising his stretcher-bearers, improving means of conveyance in civilian carts, collecting bandages and field-dressings from the dead, and searching out suitable water-supply in the conquered area. Throughout this period he had to work under heavy shell-fire, also machine-gun fire. His fearless example was most inspiring to those who worked under him. The energy and initiative he showed was beyond praise.

* LYNN, JOHN, 1912, M.C. Lieut. (Acting Captain), 8th The Gordon Highlanders.

Awarded, 29th August 1917, the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during operations at Ypres on 22nd August 1917. During the attack, when the storming battalions were held up by very heavy machine-gun fire and seemed likely to retire, Captain Lynn led forward his company, steadied the front line, and then reorganised the mixed companies for a farther advance. This he led in person, and his splendid courage set an example which resulted in important positions being captured. His untiring efforts and command of the situation were of incalculable value in the work of consolidation, and his coolness and bravery in a dangerous position heartened his men to put forth their utmost efforts. (7th March 1918.)

M^cCULLOCH, ANDREW JAMESON, 1893, D.S.O. with two Bars, D.C.M. (Sept. 1902, Boer War). Captain, 7th Dragoon Guards, p.s.c. Brevet Lieut.-Col. Act. Brigadier-General, Com. 64th Infantry Brigade, and on General Staff; Chief Instructor, Staff College, Quetta. Knight of the Legion of Honour.

The Distinguished Service Order awarded to Captain and Bt. Lieut.-Col. A. J. M^cCulloch, D.C.M., Dragoon Guards, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty throughout many days of severe fighting. His courage, energy, and unflinching cheerfulness contributed in a most marked manner to the various successful withdrawals of the battalion, and were a magnificent example to his men, whose confidence he gained in the highest degree. Later in command of a mixed force, his skill and coolness in difficult operations were worthy of the highest praise. (26th July 1918.)

A Bar to D.S.O. awarded to Capt. and Bt. Lt.-Col. A. J. M^cCulloch, while attached York Light Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a most critical time he handled his battalion with great skill and gallantry, and blocked the enemy's advance. While making a valuable reconnaissance he was gassed and wounded, but continued his command of the battalion for another two days until the situation was righted. He showed fine leadership and determination. (16th September 1918.)

A Second Bar to D.S.O., awarded, 11th January 1919, to Capt. and Bt. Lt.-Col. (T/Brig.-Gen.) A. J. M^cCulloch, D.S.O., D.C.M., 7th Dragoon Guards, comd. 64th Infantry Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and ability to command. On a pitch-dark night he penetrated 4500 yards into the enemy's lines, occupied his objective, and captured between 300 and 400 prisoners and two guns, as well as a village. The advance was over the worst country, and the right flank of the Brigade was entirely uncovered throughout. Success was entirely due to his magnificent leadership moving at the head of this Brigade.

Mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's Despatches, 15th May 1916, 25th May 1917, and 20th December 1918.

The Military Cross awarded, 27th February 1918, to Lieut. Ian Farquharson Macdonald, R.F.A., Spec. Res. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at La Vacquerie on 30th November 1917. During an enemy attack he went forward and established communication with the infantry when all wires had been cut, and sent back valuable information to the battery throughout the day. He showed great resource and courage.

MACDONALD, JAMES LESLIE AULD, B.Sc. 1911, D.S.O. Major, 12th Royal Scots, attd. 10th (Liverpool Scottish) King's Liverpool Regt.

Appointed Companion of the Distinguished Service Order. (1st January 1918.)

During the operations near Ypres on 31st July 1917 he commanded the battalion with marked ability. He made most sound dispositions for protection of the left flank of the Division, and handled every situation with boldness and dash. In the operations of 20th September 1917 he was again in command and was equally successful.

Mentioned in Sir D. Haig's Despatches, 18th December 1917.

M^cNICOLL, WILLIAM, 1915, D.C.M. Apprentice Solicitor, Dundee. Sergeant, 4th Battn. Tank Corps. Awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal, 8th August 1918.

When in command of a tank, he fought it for five miles into hostile territory, until it was put out of action by two direct hits, seriously wounding him and all his crew except one. He then ordered the crew to evacuate the tank, but he remained to cover their withdrawal by machine-gun fire. Eventually, when the infantry arrived, he was removed to a dressing station. His gallantry and devotion to duty were most praiseworthy. (Near Cayeux, 8th Aug. 1918.)

The Military Cross was awarded to T/Lt. David Mann Mann, Tank Corps, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his tank was in a very bad condition and one six-pounder gun out of action, he still continued to render most valuable assistance to the infantry, penetrating deeply into the advancing enemy on three occasions and inflicting severe casualties. Later he observed an enemy field battery coming into action: he managed to approach it unobserved and opened fire at short range, causing the gunners who were left to abandon their guns. He continued to harass the enemy till the tank broke down, when he withdrew with his Lewis-guns and ammunition. (26th July 1918.)

The Military Cross awarded to T/Lieut. (A/Capt.) James Aitken Brown Menzies, 208th Siege Bty., R.G.A., 1st January 1919. During the period under review, namely 25th February 1918 to 17th September 1918, for gallantry and devotion to duty, particularly on 9th April 1918, near Sailly-sur-la-Lys, on which date he was in command of the battery. He showed the greatest coolness and judgment throughout that day, going out himself to repair telephone lines under heavy shell fire. He personally superintended the disabling of his guns under heavy shell fire, and was the last to leave the battery position. A very capable Officer, who has done uniformly good work and shown a fine example of courage during the seven months he was in the battery. Wounded severely in the leg in the battery position near Hazebrouck and evacuated to U.K.

The Distinguished Service Order awarded, 1st January 1918, to Major George Waterston Miller, 1/3rd (High.) Fd. Amb., R.A.M.C., T.F. For devotion to duty and consistent good work during the 29 months, viz. from 1st May 1915, that he has been with the 1/3rd Highland Field Ambulance. Throughout this long period he has been conspicuous for work of the highest efficiency. During the active operations in which this Division has been engaged Major Miller has always occupied a position of considerable responsibility, notably in the battles of the Somme (July 1916), Arras (May 1917), and Ypres (July 1917), when he was in charge of advanced dressing-stations at Marmetz, L'Abayette, and near Ypres, respectively, and in addition, had charge of evacuation of wounded from the line. On all these and many other occasions his work has been of the highest order. He combines organising ability of an exceptional degree with courage, and, by his example, inspires with confidence all ranks serving with him.

Decorated with the French Croix de Guerre, January 1919.

Mentioned in Sir D. Haig's Despatches, 29th May 1917 and 24th December 1917.

 Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two successive occasions whilst doing a shoot he was attacked by hostile scouts in large superior numbers, all of whom he dispersed and
 On another occasion, having by means of the artillery knocked out three guns of a hostile battery, he descended to 500 feet and dispersed with his machine-gun a party of the enemy who were endeavouring to remove the remaining guns. (March 1917.)

* PRIDE, GEORGE, 1912, M.C. Captain, 10th The Cameronians.

The Military Cross awarded to T/Captain George Pride, 10th Bn. Scot. Rifles, 1st January 1919.

For gallantry and good service as Adjutant of the battalion during the period under review. His work throughout has been of a high order, more especially during active operations with the X. French Army. During this period the battalion was constantly on the move, and on two occasions had to be ready for battle at very short notice. He issued orders with great clearness and promptness throughout the period, did not spare himself, but showed untiring energy. On one occasion the successful forming up of two companies for battle, following a relief in an area itself gained, was largely due to his personal supervision under shell fire. On a second occasion, during a relief of the French, heavy shelling on the road amongst transport and troops of ingoing and outgoing units caused casualties and much confusion. It was in a large measure due to Captain Pride's supervision that the wounded were removed promptly and order restored. He was working throughout under heavy shell fire. He has proved himself an Officer possessed of capabilities of a high order, much resource, and one whose example under fire inspires confidence in all ranks. His work has been of the greatest value to the battalion and to the brigade.

Mentioned in Sir D. Haig's Despatches, 23rd May 1918 and 27th December 1918.

The Distinguished Service Order awarded 11th April 1918.

Has throughout operations—31st October to 11th December 1917—been indefatigable in his care of sick and wounded. The work of evacuation of the wounded when the Division was in the Judæan Hills called for forethought, coolness, and resource, all of which qualities Lieutenant-Colonel Richardson exhibited in a high degree as A.D.M.S. Yeomanry Mounted Division.

Awarded the Military Cross, 22nd February 1919.

For distinguished service and ability. This officer was placed in medical charge of the battalion in June 1916, and has served continuously since that date. At all times he has shown the utmost energy and devotion to duty. In the actions in which the battalion has been engaged during the period stated, Captain Rintoul has shown an absolute disregard for personal danger, and his skill and energy in tending the wounded during the operations round Kirkuk in April and May 1918, under difficult circumstances, were beyond all praise.

RITCHIE, CHARLES FREDERIC, 1907, D.S.O., M.C. Lt.-Col., 24th Canadian Infantry Battn., Victoria Rifles, Canada.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company in the attack with great courage and determination. Later, he again led his company to their objective in capturing and consolidating the position. He set a fine example to his men. (14th Nov. 1916.)

Awarded Distinguished Service Order, 8th March 1919.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in operations north of Cambrai on the 1st to 14th October 1918. His battalion held the front line for nine days under very trying conditions prior to our attack. Several counter-attacks were completely repulsed, the enemy suffering heavy casualties, and prisoners were made. On the 12th October he led his battalion into action, at very short notice, in a highly satisfactory manner. His work throughout these operations was of a very high order.

Mentioned in Sir D. Haig's Despatches, 11th July 1919.

ROBERTSON, JOHN WILLIAM HAY, 1912, M.C. and Bar. Captain, 4th, attd. 1st, The Black Watch.

The Military Cross awarded to Lieut. (A/Captain) J. W. H. Robertson for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His company held a very extended front by a number of small posts. By his energy and cheerfulness he maintained his posts intact, and inflicted heavy casualties on the attacking enemy, at the same time keeping the battalion commander fully informed as to his situation. (16th September 1918.)

Bar to the Military Cross awarded 3rd June 1918.

During a period of two years that he has served in France he has shown himself a good leader and a very gallant Officer. He has commanded his present company continuously since April 1917 with marked ability. He did especially good work during the operations on Passchendaele in November 1917.

The Cross was awarded before the Bar, but the announcement of the Bar was first published.

attached 4th The Black Watch.

The Distinguished Service Order awarded, 14th January 1916, to Major
J. S. Y. Rogers, R.A.M.C., T.F.

Near Rue du Bois during the attack on the 9th May 1915 he attended to the wounded under heavy shell fire, and with his own design short stretcher cleared many wounded out of the trenches. He was himself slightly wounded on May 9th, but remained at duty.

Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order, 26th September 1917, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near St. Julien, 1917.
Throughout several days' operations he attended to the wounded in the open under continuous heavy fire. Though all his stretcher bearers were casualties, with utter disregard of danger he bound up the wounded and superintended their removal. His gallantry was most marked.

Awarded the Croix de Guerre with Palm at the taking of Buzancy on 28th July 1918.

Citation à l'ordre de l'Armée. "Le 28 juillet, pendant l'attaque de Buzancy, le Major Rogers chargé des 4/5th Black Watch de jour comme de nuit, malgré un intense bombardement, dans une maison très exposée a soigné avec un infatigable dévouement tous les blessés. S'est volontairement exposé au danger avec le plus grand sang-froid pour assurer le service dans tous ses détails. Son dévouement et sa continuelle gaieté pendant toutes ces opérations lui ont valu le plus magnifique éloge de ses chefs."

The Military Cross awarded, 4th June 1917, to Captain D. J. Scott, 2/1st London Fld. Amb., R.A.M.C.

This officer took over the duties of D.A.D.M.S. after the occupant of the post had been severely wounded on the 8th September 1916. He continued to act in this capacity during the remainder of the period the Division was in action on the Somme (i.e. till 10th October 1916). The way in which he grasped the details of his duties in spite of having little training could not but evoke admiration, and his constant supervision of all advanced posts was of material assistance in the evacuation of the wounded. One cannot speak too highly of the courage and ability this Officer displayed throughout the whole period.

* SMELLIE, WILLIAM, 1912, M.C. Lieut. (Acting Captain), 5th The Royal Scots Fusiliers.

The Military Cross awarded to Sec. Lt. (Temp. Lieut.) W. Smellie [after the capture of Gaza] for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the greatest courage and disregard of danger when commanding his platoon in an assault. Having lost all his men except three in the attack, he reorganised and again reached the position under heavy machine-gun fire, and despite his losses he maintained an important position throughout the day, the loss of which would have caused a serious gap in our line. He showed a magnificent example throughout. (16th August 1917.)

- * SOUTAR, CHARLES WILLIAM, M.A. 1912, B.Sc., M.C. Sec. Lieut., 12th The Cameronians. Lieut. (Acting Major), M.G.C.

The Military Cross awarded to T/Lt. C. W. Soutar, M.G. Corps, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, when in acting command of his company he took charge at a time when only four guns out of sixteen remained in action. These he retired to a new position given him, but finding no field of fire, he advanced again on his own initiative and covered the retirement of the infantry as long as it was necessary. (26th July 1918.)

- The Distinguished Service Order awarded, 1st January 1917, to Major N. A. Stebbing, "B" Battery, 180th Brigade, R.F.A.
- This Officer acted as Brigade Commander during the Somme operations from 14th to 25th September 1916. He showed an excellent grasp of the situation at all times, and his pluck and gallantry in taking the batteries into and out of a very difficult position just south of the Morval, where they suffered very heavy casualties, was beyond all praise. Under these circumstances he carried out his duties most efficiently and zealously.
- Mentioned in Sir D. Haig's Despatches, 1st January 1917 and 23rd December 1918.
- STEGGALL, JOHN WILLIAM ABBOTT, B.Sc. 1909, A.M.I.C.E. Instructor, Royal Navy. See Roll of Honour.
- †*STEPHEN, GEORGE, 1906, M.M. Sergeant, 28th Batty., 6th Brigade, 2nd Division, Canadian Expeditionary Force.
- Military Medal awarded to Corporal G. Stephen, Canadian Field Artillery. On 11th October 1918 this N.C.O. went forward with a sniping section near Naves. As it was necessary for the Officer in charge to go farther forward to make a reconnaissance, Cpl. Stephen, after assisting in laying out lines of fire and getting the section into action under particularly heavy shell fire, took charge of the section and handled it in a very efficient manner. His personal coolness and bravery set an inspiring example to the men under his charge, and it was largely owing to this N.C.O.'s initiative and efficiency that these guns were kept in action under adverse circumstances. (3rd July 1919.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order, 1st January 1918. For continued and conspicuous good service during the last two years. This Officer has been employed in administrative duties and has shown by his excellent work that he possesses powers of administration far above the average. He has been untiring in his efforts and has rendered most valuable assistance in the medical organisation of the Army.

Appointed "Cavaleiro, Military Order of Avis," Portugal, July 1919.

Mentioned in Sir John French's Despatches, 22nd June 1915, and in Sir Douglas Haig's of 15th June 1916, 24th December 1917, and 10th July 1919.

* STIVEN, DAVID SIME, 1913, M.C. Lieut., 5th, attd. 1st, The Royal Scots.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Before a raid on the enemy's lines he reconnoitred a position in advance of our outpost line for a report centre, and supervised the laying of three lines to it. On the night of the raid he established communication by lamp from one of the objectives two minutes after its capture, and also telephonic communication to the rear. He organised a system of runners right up to the final objective, and established power-buzzer communication from the report centre to advanced Brigade Headquarters. The communications worked splendidly throughout, a fact which was undoubtedly due to his gallantry and devotion. (22nd April 1918.)

STOBO, DAVID, 1904. Corporal, 5th The Cameronians.

* STOOKES, VALENTINE ALEXANDER, B.Sc. 1915, M.C. Lieut., Spec. Res., 2nd Dragoons (Royal Scots Greys), attd. R.F.C. Captain, Squadron 60, Royal Flying Corps. Flight Commander.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and skill. He engaged the enemy with rifle fire and shot two while his pilot was photographing at 200 feet altitude. On other occasions he has done fine work. (16th May 1916.)

* TOVANI, WILLIAM RICHARD, M.A. 1915, M.C. and Bar. Captain, 7th, attached 6th, The Black Watch.

Awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his company commander had become a casualty, he led his company forward with the utmost gallantry, although wounded in the face, and captured a machine-gun emplacement, which was causing great hindrance to the advance. He continued to lead his company until he was again wounded and compelled to desist. (January 1918.)

Bar to the Military Cross awarded to Lieut. W. R. Tovani, M.C., Royal Highlanders, attd. 1/6th Bn. Royal Highlanders.

During operations of 24/26th October 1918, near Monchaux and Famars, he displayed magnificent leadership in two attacks, in both of which his company did excellent work, capturing a large number of prisoners and machine-guns. All through he showed a fine example of courage to his men, and ability to deal with extremely difficult situations.
